

Grant Opportunities & News You Can Use

Happy holiday season, Barnard faculty!

We know from an analysis of click-throughs and webpage use that the season of Winter Solstice is a favorite time for many of you to use the newsletter and other resources on the Sponsored Research webpages. This newsletter profiles opportunities coming due in early March, but those of you looking for opportunities in January and February might want to review newsletters from October, November, and December. Alternatively, you can download the whole year's Grants Calendar from the website and sort by due date, discipline, funder, or grant type.

Our featured funder this cycle is the Russell Sage Foundation. Sage Advice provides "Tips for Presenting Scientific Images with Integrity" in grant proposals. There's a wealth of (mostly NIH) News this month on page 4.

You can find reminders for deadlines over the next six months on page thirteen, grouped by discipline.

Upcoming internal grant deadlines are January 31st and March 8th. See the Barnard website, here, for more information. If you have colleagues abroad whom you might like to bring to Barnard under the Weiss Fellowships for Visiting International Scholars Program, please see information here.

For assistance in finding grants for an upcoming project or to begin an application process, please contact Kari Steeves or any one of us in Institutional Funding and Sponsored Research. As always, feel free to send us comments, requests, or suggestions here.

Featured Funder

Russel Sage Foundation

According to its website, the Russell Sage foundation is “one of the oldest American foundations.” The foundation focuses its funding efforts on “strengthening the methods, data, and theoretical core of the social sciences as a means of diagnosing social problems and improving social policies. “ The following opportunities may be of interest to Barnard faculty.

Behavioral Economics Program

This program “supports research that uses insights and methods from psychology, economics, sociology, political science and other social sciences to examine and improve social and living conditions in the United States.” The program offers project grants as well as small grants. Deadline: For project grants, May 23, 2019 and August 19, 2019. For small grants, applications are accepted on a rolling basis. <<more>>

Future of Work Program

This program “examines the causes and consequences of the deteriorating quality of low-wage jobs in the United States. Projects sponsored by the program have examined a wide range of causal factors, from foreign outsourcing and immigration to the decline of unions and technological change, that may have depressed wages of low-education workers.” Deadline: August 19, 2019 <<more>>

Race, Ethnicity, and Immigration Program

This program “encourages multi-disciplinary perspectives on questions stemming from the significant changes in the racial, ethnic, and immigrant-origin composition of the U.S. population. A primary goal is to find ways in which researchers from different social science traditions studying issues of race, ethnicity, and immigration may complement one another in productive and innovative ways.” Deadline: August 19, 2019 <<more>>

Social Inequality Program

This program “has investigated a variety of areas of social life, from education and health care to intergenerational mobility, to determine whether the increasing financial gap between the rich and poor has also exacerbated social inequalities of the kind that amplify and entrench economic differences. Recently, the program has turned to in-depth examinations of two key institutions the United States relies on to counteract market-driven inequality: public education and the democratic electoral system.” Deadline: May 23, 2019 <<more>>

Special Initiative in Integrative Biology and Social Science Knowledge

This initiative “fosters rigorous collaborative research between social and biological scientists, and supports research that takes advantage of new theories, concepts, and data from the biological sciences—including neuroscience, endocrinology, immunology and physiology, population genetics and epigenetics.” Deadline: May 23, 2019 <<more>>

Special Initiative in Computational Social Science

“Advances in analytical methods for exploiting and analyzing data have accompanied the rise of these data. The Russell Sage Foundation’s special initiative on Computational Social Science (CSS) supports innovative social science research that brings these new data and methods to bear on questions of interest in its core programs.” Deadline: August 19, 2019 <<more>>

The Foundation also has a Visiting Scholar Program for research in the social sciences. Applications will be accepted January 14—June 27, 2019.

Sage Advice for Competitive

U.S. Office of Research Integrity

Continuing our series of infographics released by the U.S. Health and Human Services Office of Research Integrity, we focus on two that address the use of images in proposals, “Tips for Presenting Scientific Images with Integrity” and “It’s a Slippery Slope...” which situates image manipulation in a continuum of misconduct mistakes. You can find other examples of research integrity eye candy here.

IT'S A SLIPPERY SLOPE TO RESEARCH MISCONDUCT

It doesn't matter if you're an undergraduate researcher, a graduate student, a post-doc, or a principal investigator who is performing federally funded research, writing a research paper, or leading a research program; research integrity matters at every level.

Small lapses in judgment could lead to a slippery slope ending in research misconduct.

Be vigilant against these common lapses:

1. TAKING SHORTCUTS

Lack of care in experimentation that might impact reproducibility

2. CHEATING

Such as puffery, which is inflating your resume, can establish dangerous behavior patterns

3. "BEAUTIFICATION" OF IMAGES

Removing an unwanted feature, even if unrelated to the result, could be scientifically significant

4. LACK OF APPROPRIATE CONTROLS

Failure to perform a control with the experimental sample could affect result interpretation

5. COMPOSITE IMAGES

Assemblies of images that are not clearly labeled, such as a montage of cell images from the same experiment but not labeled as such.

6. OUTLIERS

Omitting outlier data without appropriate pre-experiment justification which alters the overall conclusion of the analysis

7. IMAGE MANIPULATION

Splicing, cutting, or cropping images; without properly documenting changes, that alters the results or falsely claims a result which was not obtained.

Questionable or Detrimental Research Practices may be considered research misconduct in some cases, but the facts of each case differ and must be individually evaluated.

Return to table of contents

TIPS FOR PRESENTING SCIENTIFIC IMAGES with INTEGRITY

Images should clearly and correctly represent research results. Minor image processing may be acceptable but, as depicted below there's a fine line between enhancing an image and distorting it.

BE AWARE:

Undocumented image manipulations can lead to accusations of research misconduct.

67%

of ORI's closed research misconduct cases involved image manipulation.*

*between 2011 and 2015

ORIGINAL IMAGE

COLOR ENHANCEMENTS

Changing the contrast, color, or brightness

Ensure that the meaning of the image stays the same and fine details are not removed.

Contrast and saturation were increased causing the background cells to disappear.

SPLICE & PASTE

Combining multiple images into one image

Clearly indicate where two images were joined using a dividing line and labels.

Two images were combined causing them to look like new data.

CROP

Cutting out components and resizing

Use a magnification panel to highlight desired visual data.

Reference information was selectively removed from the image causing loss of data.

WHAT ELSE MUST YOU DO?

- ✓ Clearly document all changes made to an image.
- ✓ Retain the unprocessed image for your records.
- ✓ Follow journal guidelines for permissible processing.

FROM THE NIH

Changes to the R15 Academic Research Enhancement Award (AREA)

"As announced in this guide notice, as of January 2019, NIH is shifting its approach to how we use the R15 activity code. While NIH will continue to provide R15 research enhancement opportunities for health professional and graduate schools, the name, AREA, will be reserved for grants to undergraduate-focused institutions that do not receive substantial funding from NIH. Today's undergraduates represent the future of biomedical research and, as such, it is imperative that we support access to research opportunities for students at undergraduate schools across the country.

"The AREA program will have its own set of FOAs, distinct from those issued for health professional schools and graduate schools of arts and sciences. This approach will allow us to better track the undergraduates we support at under resourced institutions. Institutions applying for AREA grants must have an undergraduate student enrollment that is greater than graduate student enrollment and, in order to qualify for the AREA program, all the non-health professional components of the institution together cannot have received support from the NIH totaling more than $6 million per year in total costs in 4 of the last 7 years.

"... Existing R15 FOAs referencing the ineligibility list will be expired, including the parent AREA FOA. The AREA Parent Announcement, PA-18-504, will expire after the January 7, 2019, AIDS due date and will not be reissued. Instead, the following announcements will be available in December:

The Academic Research Enhancement Award for Undergraduate-Focused Institutions \(R15 – Clinical Trial Not Allowed\) PAR-18-714 already requires a signed letter verifying eligibility, and thus will continue on without needing to be reissued.

- ✦ An AREA announcement allowing clinical trials
- ✦ An announcement for health professional and graduate schools of arts and sciences (Clinical Trial Not Allowed)
- ✦ An announcement for health professional and graduate schools of arts and sciences (Clinical Trial Required)

"Be sure to look closely at the list of participating institutes and centers on each announcement. Not all Institutes and Centers participate on the R15 FOAs. We encourage you to consult with the scientific contacts listed in section VII of the FOA to ensure that the funding opportunity you plan to apply to is suitable for your science."

New Funding Opportunities for Basic Experimental Studies Involving Humans

"We have heard the community input regarding the breadth of the NIH clinical trials definition and the concerns about the applicability of some clinical trials policies to fundamental, basic science studies. In response to these concerns, the NIH has developed new funding opportunities specifically for basic experimental studies involving humans scheduled for release this week (see the NIH Parent Announcements page). These funding opportunities, designated as "Basic Experimental Studies with Humans Required" are for studies that meet the definition of basic research and also are subject to clinical trials policies based on the NIH definition of a clinical trial.

“Over the next several weeks, we will be rolling out a variety of resources to help inform applicants about these new funding opportunities including tools for choosing the correct FOA. FAQs and a table comparing Funding Opportunity Types by Clinical Trial Allowability are already available.”

Can My Application be Considered a Resubmission Even if I am Not Re-Submitting to the Same FOA?

“It depends on whether the FOAs are Program Announcements (PA, PAR, PAS or Parent) or Requests for Applications (RFA).

“... If you originally submitted to an RFA and want to resubmit to a Program Announcement, this will be considered a new application. Similarly, if your original application was submitted to a Program Announcement and you want to now submit to an RFA, it would also be considered a new application.”

Resources for Rigorous Research

“...[F]or applications due on January 25, 2019 and beyond, the term “rigor of the prior research” will replace “scientific premise” under the Significance section for most research grant and career development award applications (see NOT-OD-18-228 and NOT-OD-18-229). Applicants will be asked, on and after that submission date, to also describe plans to address weaknesses in the rigor of the prior research in the Approach section. To accommodate these new changes, the webpage exists as a landing page with four distinct sub-pages, so you can quickly get to the information you need. These sub-pages break out relevant guidance, resources for preparing your application and training materials, as well as a timeline of our communications on rigor through Guide Notices, blogs, FAQs, and references. New information abounds. Are you looking for research methods resources or ways to calculate sample sizes for your study? Knowing what exactly goes into a good authentication

plan? Assistance with your pre-clinical animal model experimental design? Guidance on incorporating both sexes into your research plan? Perhaps other related policy requirements? Oh, and a training video or two? Find these and more on the easily browsable sub-pages. We also recorded a conversation for the NIH All About Grants podcast series to help the extramural research community better understand the NIH’s Rigor and Transparency policy (click to play at the bottom of this page). Dr. Patricia Valdez, NIH’s Extramural Research Integrity Officer, describes how to address the key policy elements in an application, how they are considered during peer review, and annual progress reporting following award.”

FY 2019 Policy Updates

“Next Generation Researchers Initiative

Policy: NIH will prioritize meritorious R01-equivalent applications from ESI PD/PIs. By providing funding priority for ESIs, NIH intends to encourage funding applications that involve researchers earlier in their career ... described at <https://grants.nih.gov/grants/guide/notice-files/NOT-OD-17-101.html>.

Salary Limits: ...prohibits payments for salaries under grants and other extramural mechanisms in excess of Executive Level II currently set at $189,600.”

National Endowment for the Arts Institutes for Advanced Topics in Digital Humanities

Deadline: March 12, 2019

"The Institutes for Advanced Topics in the Digital Humanities program supports national or regional (multistate) training programs for scholars, humanities professionals, and advanced graduate students to broaden and extend their knowledge of digital humanities. Through this program NEH seeks to increase the number of humanities scholars and practitioners using digital technology in their research and to broadly disseminate knowledge about advanced technology tools and methodologies relevant to the humanities. The projects may be a single opportunity or offered multiple times to different audiences. Institutes may be as short as a few days and held at multiple locations or as long as six weeks at a single site. For example, training opportunities could be offered before or after regularly occurring scholarly meetings, during the summer months, or during appropriate times of the academic year. The duration of a program should allow for full and thorough treatment of the topic. These professional development programs may focus on a particular computational method, such as network or spatial analysis. They may also target the needs of a particular humanities discipline or audience." <<more>>

The American Folklife Center Archie Green Fellowships

Deadline: March 12, 2019

Future of Work at the Human-Technology Frontier: Core Research

Deadline: March 6, 2019

"A proposal for a research grant in this program must focus on advancing fundamental understanding of future work, and potential improvements to work, workplaces, workforce preparation, or work outcomes for workers and society. It must be convergent research that addresses the technological as well as the human and societal dimensions and potential impact of future work, and in doing so, make significant contributions to both intellectual merit and broader impact. Achieving this goal requires integration and convergence of disciplines across computer science, engineering, learning sciences, research on education and workforce training, and social, behavioral, and economic sciences. A convergent perspective is essential to understand and shape long-term social and economic drivers, so that advanced intelligent technology will strengthen the social fabric. A convergent perspective also provides insights into education and re-skilling, so that the benefits of emerging technology can be conferred upon all citizens."

Brain Cancer Research Distinguished Scientist Awards

Deadline: March 13, 2019

"The Distinguished Scientist Award (DSA) seeks to provide career and research support to early career scientists who demonstrate outstanding promise for making scientific and medical breakthroughs in the field of brain cancer research." <<more>>

American Chemical Society

New Directions Grants

Deadline: March 15, 2019

"The New Directions (ND) grants program provides funds to scientists and engineers with limited—or even no—preliminary results for a research project they wish to pursue, and who intend to use the PRF-driven preliminary results to seek continuation funding from other agencies. ND grants are to be used to illustrate proof of concept/feasibility. Accordingly, they are to be viewed as seed money for new research ventures." <<more>>

American Chemical Society Undergraduate Research

Deadline: March 15, 2019

"The Undergraduate Research (UR) grants program provides funding for scientists and engineers with established programs of research at non-doctoral departments. UR grants are used to illustrate proof of principle, i.e., feasibility, and accordingly, are to be viewed as seed money for generating preliminary results that can be used to apply for continuation funding from other agencies. Applicants may have limited or no preliminary results for a research project they wish to pursue." <<more>>

American Psychological Association Travel Grants for U.S. Psychologists to Attend International Conferences

Deadline: March 15, 2019

"This award will cover or partially cover conference registration fees at international conferences held outside the United States and Canada for U.S.-based psychologists. APA and APAGS members are eligible to apply." <<more>>

American Psychological Association John and Polly Sparks Early Career Grant

Deadline: March 15, 2019

"The John and Polly Sparks Early Career Grant supports early career psychologists conducting research in the area of early intervention and treatment for serious emotional disturbance in children. The John and Polly Sparks Foundation partnered with APF to empower early career psychologists to produce scientifically-based research and programs that could provide models for broad-based applications across the country." <<more>>
