Grant Opportunities & News You Can Use

Hello, faculty,

We're still working! We are experimenting with working remotely, but we are accessible by email or our office phone numbers. We know you will likely have a lot of questions about your grants and your research in the upcoming days. Feel free to ask us. If we don't know the answer, we can figure out who does.

Our newsletter this month deals with the same thing everyone is dealing with right now: COVID-19. For our Featured Funder, we've profiled the NSF's RAPID Response Grant programs, which offers limited, targeted opportunities for research in the wake of a disaster. For Sage Advice, we have likewise gathered together some of the key FAQ sources for researchers affected the COVID-19, either in terms of conducting research or applying for grants.

That's the most important bit of news. After that, be sure to check out upcoming grant opportunities. We have Action Grants from Humanities NY coming up on April 1st and a whole host of NEH grants coming due April 8th. If you want to see those deadlines throughout the year, go to the Grants Calendar and Fellowship Calendar on the External Grant Opportunities page on the Barnard website. The next internal grant deadline is Monday March 30th. See Barnard's website here for more information.

As always, if you need assistance finding grants or beginning an application, please feel free to send an email to me or any of the other members of the Institutional Funding and Sponsored Research team.

NSF RAPID Response Grants

Think of a major disaster from the last fifteen years. The Gulf Coast oil spill. The 8.8 magnitude earthquake in Chile in 2010. Ebola. Our increasingly violent hurricane season. Chances are whatever you just thought of was followed by a call from the NSF for a RAPID Response Grant.

Our current disaster, COVID-19, is no different. On March 4, 2020, NSF released a Dear Colleague Letter that began as follows:

> In light of the emergence and spread of the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) in the United States and abroad, the National Science Foundation (NSF) is accepting proposals to conduct non-medical, non-clinical-care research that can be used immediately to explore how to model and understand the spread of COVID-19, to inform and educate about the science of virus transmission and prevention, and to encourage the development of processes and actions to address this global challenge.

We've profiled the NSF before, but this seems like a good time to highlight its RAPID Response Grants—what they are and how they're different from regular NSF grants.

According to the NSF, "RAPID is a type of proposal used when there is a severe urgency with regard to availability of, or access to, data, facilities or specialized equipment, including quick-response research on natural or anthropogenic disasters and similar unanticipated events. PI(s) must contact the NSF Program Officer(s) whose expertise is most germane to the proposal topic before submitting a RAPID proposal. This will facilitate determining whether the proposed work is appropriate for RAPID funding."

RAPID Grants differ from regular NSF grants in a few key ways.

1) They're shorter. NSF proposals normally tend to be 15 pages, but, as the NSF's website notes, "The Project Description is expected to be brief and must be no more than five pages. It must include clear statements as to why the proposed research is of an urgent nature and why RAPID is the most appropriate type of proposal for supporting the proposed work. Note this proposal preparation instruction deviates from the standard proposal preparation instructions contained in this Guide; RAPID proposals must otherwise be compliant with the proposal preparation requirements specified in Part I of the PAPPG."

2) They aren't sent out for external review. "Only internal merit review is required for RAPID proposals. Under rare circumstances, Program Officers may elect to obtain external reviews to inform their decision. If external review is to be obtained, then the PI will be informed in the interest of maintaining the transparency of the review and recommendation process. The two standard National Science Board-approved merit review criteria will apply."

3) They only last a year (though they can be renewed). "Requests may be for up to $200K and up to one year in duration. The award size, however, will be consistent with the project scope and of a size comparable to grants in similar areas."

4) If declined, they cannot be resubmitted.

5) Renewals must be subject to external review. "Renewed funding of RAPID awards may be requested only through submission of a proposal that will be subject to full external merit review. Such proposals would be designated as "RAPID renewals."

That's about it. So if you have anything that fits or even an inkling, feel free to reach out to us and we can help.

Sage Advice for Competitive Proposals

COVID-19 Frequently Asked Questions for Researchers

There's not much point in talking about anything else right now, so today's Sage Advice column is going to pull together the information we have about how COVID-19 will affect your grants—both the ones you are applying for and the ones you currently have.

On our home ground, Columbia has put together a very thorough FAQ page that addresses concerns of scholars who want to work on COVID-19, either by applying for related grants or sharing biological samples (such as plasma or virus) with other organizations, and scholars whose work is interrupted by the outbreak. Among other topics, the website answers the following questions:

- "How will the pause in my research impact my grant expenditures?"
- "My study may be impacted by the pause, which could lead to delays in completing my study by the end of the project period. What should I do?"
- "What is the contingency plan for research animal care?"

The NSF recently released a Dear Colleague Letter, inviting proposals "to conduct non-medical, non-clinical-care research that can be used immediately to explore how to model and understand the spread of COVID-19, to inform and educate about the science of virus transmission and prevention, and to encourage the development of processes and actions to address this global challenge." They also have a FAQ page devoted to all questions related to the Coronavirus. Here are some key points:

"Will NSF provide for an extension to my award if the planned activities are disrupted by the COVID-19 public health threat?

> "All NSF awards are eligible for one-year grantee-approved no-cost extensions and then further extensions as approved by NSF. If you foresee a need for NSF-approved extensions, you should include that information in your annual report and discuss the need ahead of time with the cognizant NSF program officer for your award. See the Proposal & Award Policies & Procedures Guide (PAPPG), Chapter VI.D.3, for additional information."

"My university has asked staff to stay home for an undetermined period of time. How would I petition for an extension of a proposal deadline?

> "Researchers or sponsored projects office staff from organizations that have been affected and are unable to meet stated NSF deadlines should contact the cognizant NSF program office to discuss the issue. NSF will consider extensions to the submission deadline on a case-by-case basis (and, in a few cases, on a program-by-program basis), understanding that it may be particularly difficult for individuals impacted to contact NSF."

The NIH has a similarly helpful FAQ page.

"My NIH grant involves an exchange of researchers (including students) and/or other foreign travel. Should I continue with plans?

> Travel logistics, accessibility, and health and safety considerations of the participants in an active research project should always be a foremost consideration. NIH recommends consulting with your organization about its policies and procedures. You may consider approaching the planned researcher exchanges and/or other foreign travel with flexibility, and/or devising alternate plans including virtual participation as appropriate. As noted above, NIH understands that plans for active research projects may be disrupted, to the point of needing extensions on the original award durations. For foreign travel, you should consult the State Department Travel Advisories website."

"FAQs About the Coronavrius Disease 2019 for NSF Proposers and Awardees"

"This document addresses questions associated with proposal submission and award management that may arise in relation to COVID-19. NSF is providing this information as a service to our proposer and awardee communities in the hope it will address most of the questions that may arise in this regard. Given that COVID-19 and the associated impacts continue to evolve, proposers and awardees are strongly encouraged to monitor this website for updates." <<more>>

"NSF supporting research to address Coronavirus Diseases."

"NSF creates new research security chief position"
"The National Science Foundation has appointed Rebecca Spyke Keiser to the newly created position of chief of research security strategy and policy as part of its continuing effort to ensure the security of federally funded research while maintaining an open international collaboration.

In this role, Keiser will be tasked with providing the NSF director with policy advice on all aspects of research security strategy. She will also lead NSF's efforts to develop and implement strategies to improve research security and the agency's coordination with other federal agencies and the White House.

NSF created the position as part of its response to the recommendations the independent science advisory group JASON presented to NSF in the study "Fundamental Research Security," published in December.

"The JASON report was clear that the U.S. science community faces threats to its longstanding position of openness and transparency of research and its results. Navigating this situation will require substantive engagement with the research community, intelligence agencies, oversight committees and law enforcement. Dr. Keiser will lead our engagement efforts," said NSF Director France Córdova. "All of us at NSF are taking this issue very seriously." <<more>>

"NIH Late Application Policy Due to Public Health Emergency for United States for 2019 Novel Coronavirus." March 9, 2020

"It is likely that the emergency declaration related to novel coronavirus (COVID-19) will adversely affect some NIH applicants' and recipients' ability to submit applications in a timely manner.

Late applications

When delays occur because the applicant or recipient organization is officially closed or unable to submit grant applications due to the effects of COVID-19, the NIH will consider accepting applications late, on a case-by-case basis, in accordance with the NIH Grants Policy Statement, Section 2.3.9, under the following circumstances:

- Institutions must submit applications or reports as soon as possible after reopening or resuming operations so that grant applications can be submitted, not to exceed the number of days the institution was officially closed or unable to submit grant applications.

- Institutions must submit a cover letter with the applications with enough detail about the delay so that NIH staff can make a determination whether circumstances justify accepting the application late.

News

- Institutions need not request advance permission to submit late due to this declared emergency.

NIH will be issuing additional guidance related to this public health emergency in the near future."

"Special OLAW Webinar on March 19: Pandemic Contingency Planning and Its Impact on Animal Care."

All PHS-assured institutions are required to develop disaster plans that account for both the well-being of animals and consideration of personnel during unexpected events that may compromise ongoing animal care. This includes contingency planning for pandemics such as the current outbreak of COVID-19. We are hosting a special webinar on March 19th to help your institution prepare for a pandemic that may impact the animal care and use program.

We'll discuss:
- flexibilities provided by the PHS Policy which facilitate social distancing,
- the importance of cross-training to minimize the number of animal care staff at work,
- and options your institution may wish to consider that it does not use in the normal operation of its animal care and use program.

We will also accept questions on the particular challenges your institution is facing during these uncertain times. If you're able, please submit your questions in advance to olawdpe@od.nih.gov.

Registration for the webinar is full, but it is being recorded and will be posted here as soon as possible afterwards. <<more>>

"Trump Administration Expands Reach of EPA Secret Science Proposal."

From Science Magazine, by Kelsey Brugger. Posted on March 04, 2020.

"The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) yesterday evening released a controversial proposal to limit the scientific research used in the federal rulemaking process.

Greens have already vowed to sue the agency.

The draft "Strengthening Transparency in Regulatory Science" is part of the agency's persistent effort to rework the foundation on which public health and environmental rules are crafted.

The draft released yesterday builds on a 2018 proposal issued by then-EPA Administrator Scott Pruitt, who at the time declared that "the era of secret science at EPA is coming to an end." Now his successor, Andrew Wheeler, has sought to shore up shortcomings in the initial proposal while expanding the scope to cover all the agency's scientific information—not just what's used in rulemaking." <<more>>

"China bans cash bonuses for publishing papers."

From Science by Smriti Mallapaty. Posted on February 28, 2020.

"Chinese institutions have been told to stop paying researchers bonuses for publishing in journals, as part of a new national policy to cut perverse incentives that encourage scientists to publish lots of papers rather than focus on high-impact work.

In an order released last week, China's science and education ministries also say that institutions must not promote or recruit researchers solely on the basis of the number of papers they publish, or their citations. Researchers are welcoming the policy, but say that it could reduce the country's competitiveness in science.Despite their size, researchers say studies of one person can uncover results that would be lost in a large-scale trial and can have all of the statistical power and scientific rigor of studies involving hundreds or thousands of people. " <<more>>

Grant Opportunities

General Interests and cross-disciplinary

Fahs-Beck Fund of the New York Community Trust Research and Experimentation Grant Program
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"Areas of interest to the Fund are: studies to develop, refine, evaluate, or disseminate innovative interventions designed to prevent or ameliorate major social, psychological, behavioral or public health problems affecting children, adults, couples, families, or communities, or studies that have the potential for adding significantly to knowledge about such problems."

Columbia Brown Institute
Magic Grant
Deadline: April 10, 2020
"Magic Grants provide year-long funding awards of up to $150,000 ($300,000 for teams with members of both the Columbia and Stanford communities). In addition to funding, grantees have access to a distinguished advisory and mentoring group, an extensive and inspiring alumni network. We are looking for hardware, software, and story proposals. We are interested in projects that advance storytelling and journalism through new applications of technology. We also are interested in new tools and technologies that extend media broadly. Since its founding six years ago, the Brown Institute has funded over 140 people across over 40 projects. Example include... An open repository for data on the Panamanian government. A hotspot detector for social media feeds, highlighting important stories in a city. A tool to auto-generate rough cuts for documentary videos. A 360-video documentary on the famine in South Sudan. An augmented reality application for enhancing tours though art museums. Experiments with natural and gestural (i.e., not a joystick) interfaces to drones. A platform for helping science journalists better contextualize new research reports." <<more>>

National Library of Australia
National Library of Australia Fellowships
Deadline: April 24, 2020
"The National Library of Australia, in partnership with its generous sponsors and donors, offers researchers an opportunity to undertake a 12-week residency at the Library. Applicants may work in any field or discipline where the Library's collections have appropriate depth and breadth to support the desired outcomes. Fellowships are available to researchers who require onsite access to the Library's uniquely held or extensive collections to advance their research towards publication or other public outcomes. Fellowships will:
- contribute to a greater public understanding or knowledge of the Library's collections
- promote discussion through research which informs and engages contemporary discourse.
- enhance the national and international reputation of the National Library as an institution of major research significance.
- actively promote the research experience and outcomes

Fellowships are open to individuals with research at any stage of development, as well as those undertaking research which forms part of a larger project. When an individual is contributing to a collaborative project, they must demonstrate their own research component." <<more>>

Fellows are expected to be in residence at the Robert H. Smith International Center for Jefferson Studies (ICJS), where they will have access to Monticello's expert staff and research holdings at the Jefferson Library as well as those of the University of Virginia. During their residencies, fellows hold a 45 minute forum on their research projects." <<more>>

American Historical Association
Fellowship in Aerospace History
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"The Fellowships in Aerospace History are offered annually by the National Aeronautics Space Administration (NASA) to support significant scholarly research projects in aerospace history. These fellowships grant the opportunity to engage in significant and sustained advanced research in all aspects of the history of aerospace from the earliest human interest in flight to the present, including cultural and intellectual history, economic history, history of law and public policy, and the history of science, engineering, and management. NASA provides funds to the American Historical Association, the History of Science Society, and the Society for the History of Technology to allow each association to award a fellowship. Applications will be entered into consideration for all three fellowships.... The fellow will be expected to devote the term entirely to the proposed research project. Residency is not required." <<more>>

The Center for Ethnomusicology
The Nadia and Nicholas Nahumck Fellowship
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"Purpose: To help support research on a dance-related subject and its subsequent publication. Eligibility: Established scholars, recent Ph.D.s or Ph.D. candidates who have completed all degree program requirements except dissertation research. Preference will be given to applicants planning to enhance their research findings with movement notations such as Labanotation and/or with digital media such as photographs, video, or web-based formats. Prize: $4,000 research fellowship and $1,000 award for publication. Regularity: Awarded biennially (even years), or as frequently as allowed by investment returns." <<more>>

National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship
Deadline: April 1 2020
"NEH Fellowships are competitive awards granted to individual scholars pursuing projects that embody exceptional research, rigorous analysis, and clear writing. Applications must clearly articulate a project's value to humanities scholars, general audiences, or both. Fellowships provide recipients time to conduct research or to produce books, monographs, peer-reviewed articles, e-books, digital materials, translations with annotations or a critical apparatus, or critical editions resulting from previous research. Projects may be at any stage of development." <<more>>

National Endowment for the Humanities Mellon Fellowships for Digital Publication
Deadline: April 8, 2020
"Through NEH-Mellon Fellowships for Digital Publication, the National Endowment for the Humanities and The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation jointly support individual scholars pursuing interpretive research projects that require digital expression and digital publication. To be eligible for this special opportunity, an applicant's plans for digital publication must be essential to the project's research goals. That is, the project must be conceived as digital because the nature of the research and the topics being addressed demand presentation beyond traditional print publication. Successful projects will likely incorporate visual, audio, and/or other multimedia materials or flexible reading pathways that could not be included in traditionally published books, as well as an active distribution plan." <<more>>

Columbia University Heyman Center Edward Said Fellowship
Expected Deadline: April 8, 2020
*Website will be updated for 2020 in the following weeks
"Named in his honor, the Edward W. Said Fellowship supports promising scholars early in their careers to produce scholarship that speaks across disciplinary boundaries, promotes humanistic inquiry in the service of intercultural communication and understanding, and engages the public. The fellowship is intended to help support a short-term residency (one month to one semester) at Columbia University so as to allow scholars to consult the Edward W. Said Collection in the Rare Book and Manuscript Library." <<more>>

National Endowment for the Arts
Challenge America Grants
Deadline: April 9, 2020
The Challenge America category offers support primarily to small and mid-sized organizations for projects that extend the reach of the arts to underserved populations -- those whose opportunities to experience the arts are limited by geography, ethnicity, economics, or disability. Age alone (e.g., youth, seniors) does not qualify a group as underserved; at least one of the underserved characteristics noted above also must be present. Provide details about the underserved audience you select in your application using relevant statistics and anecdotal information. Proposals should detail the efforts made to reach the identified underserved population. Grants are available for professional arts programming and for projects that emphasize the potential of the arts in community development."

Deadline: April 20, 2020
"The Whiting Creative Nonfiction Grant of $40,000 is awarded to writers in the process of completing a book of deeply researched and imaginatively composed nonfiction. The Whiting Foundation recognizes that these works are essential to our culture, but come into being at great cost to writers in time and resources. The grant is intended to encourage original and ambitious projects by giving recipients the additional means to do exacting research and devote time to composition. All creative nonfiction writers under contract with a publisher and at least two years into their contract are encouraged to apply online. Applicants must be US citizens or residents. Whiting welcomes submissions for works of history, cultural or political reportage, biography, memoir, the sciences, philosophy, criticism, food or travel writing, and personal essays, among other categories." <<more>>

Social Sciences

National Institute of Justice
 Research into Immigration and Crime
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"With this solicitation, NIJ seeks proposals for research projects that increase understanding of the relationship between immigration, both legal and illegal, and crime. Applicants should propose research projects that have clear implications for criminal justice policy and practice in the United States. NIJ encourages applicants to submit proposals for innovative approaches to advance the field's rigor and methodology in understanding the relationship between immigration and crime." <<more>>

National Institute of Justice
Research and Evaluation on Domestic Terrorism Prevention
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"This solicitation seeks to build knowledge and evidence related to strategies for effective prevention of terrorism in the United States. Applicants should propose research projects that will primarily benefit, and have clear implications for, criminal justice agencies and their attendant communities at the state, local, and tribal levels." <<more>>

The Society for Ethnomusicology
Judith McCulloh Public Sector Award
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"This grant funds publication preparation, or research leading to publication, undertaken by professional members of the AIA. Its purpose is to assist scholars in preparing, completing and publishing results of their research in Graeco-Roman Art and Architecture, and the broader Mediterranean world of Classical antiquity. Awards may be used for research leading to the publication of an art historical monograph or for costs associated with publication, such as image licensing." <<more>>

American Musicological Society
Harold Powers World Travel Fund
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"The Harold Powers World Travel Fund honors the polymathic scholar and distinguished AMS member whose publications have ranged from music and language to medieval mode to Indian music to Puccini and whose interests were wider still, but always with the communicative aspects of music at their base. The award is to be given annually to one or more doctoral students at or graduates of North American universities to conduct doctoral or post-doctoral musicological research in all fields of musical scholarship and throughout the world. If they seek to conduct research for their dissertation, they must have completed all other requirements for the Ph.D. If they seek to conduct post-doctoral research, they should have completed the Ph.D. within the past five years. Preference will be given to applicants whose home institutions do not offer financial support for musicological research." <<more>>

Research and Evaluation on Policing
Deadline: April 13, 2020
"The U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), Office of Justice Programs (OJP), National Institute of Justice (NIJ) is seeking applications for funding for research projects employing randomized control trials (RCTs) to develop evidence-based knowledge in policing." <<more>>

American Speech-Language-Hearing Foundation
New Investigators Research Grant
Deadline: April 15, 2020
"The American Speech-Language-Hearing Foundation (ASHFoundation) invites new researchers to submit proposals in competition for up to 10 research grants of $10,000 each. The New Investigators Research Grant is designed to help further new investigators' research activities by funding preliminary studies that could launch larger-scale research studies. Research, while not limited in topic, should be focused to match a one-year scope and should have clinical relevance to audiology and/or speech-language pathology. NOTE for 2020: Intent to submit form by March 8" <<more>>

American Political Science Association
Small Research Grant Program
Deadline: April 15, 2020
"The APSA Small Research Grant Program supports research in all fields of political science. The intent of these grants is to provide funding opportunities for research conducted by political scientists not employed at PhD-granting departments in the field, or who are in non-tenure track or contingent positions ineligible for departmental funding." <<more>>

National Institute of Justice
Evaluation of Services for Victims of Crime
Deadline: April 20, 2020
"With this solicitation, NIJ continues to build upon its research and evaluation efforts to better understand, prevent, and respond to trafficking in persons in the United States. Applicants should propose research projects that — first and foremost — have clear implications for criminal justice policy and practice in the United States."

EDUCATION

Brady Education Fund
Grants Program
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"Evaluate programs consistent with strength-based approaches rather than deficit models and consider the specific and unique assets and needs of children from diverse racial and ethnic groups and/or from low-income communities. Concerning race and ethnicity, the Foundation seeks to increase understanding of what works best for children from diverse racial, ethnic, and cultural backgrounds (e.g., Black / African Heritage, Latine*, Indigenous Peoples)." <<more>>

LANGUAGE & AREA STUDIES

Institute of Turkish Studies
Grants in Turkish and Ottoman Studies for Publication of Scholarly Books and Journals, Academic Conferences, and Teaching Aids
Deadline: March 31, 2020
"The Institute of Turkish Studies (ITS) will offer grants and fellowships in the field of Ottoman and Modern Turkish Studies to graduate students, post-doctoral scholars, universities, and other educational institutions through its Grants Program for the 2020-2021 academic year.

- Grants for the Publication of Scholarly Books and Journals to cover part of the publication costs of scholarly books and journals in the field of Turkish Studies to be published in the U.S.

- Teaching Aids Grants for the development of instructional materials in the field of Turkish Studies, such as language teaching materials, maps, slides, etc.
- The Institute of Turkish Studies (ITS) invites scholars with research interests in Turkey currently employed by institutes of higher education in the United States to submit proposals to host an academic conference in conjunction with ITS." <<more>>

Max van Berchem Foundation
Research Grant for Islamic and Arabic Studies
Deadline: March 31, 2020
"The Max van Berchem Foundation, whose goal is to promote the study of Islamic and Arabic archaeology, history, geography, art history, epigraphy, religion and literature, awards grants for research carried out in these areas by scholars who have already received their doctorate."

National Endowment for the Humanities
Fellowships for Advanced Social Science Research in Japan
Deadline: April 22, 2020
"The Fellowships for Advanced Social Science Research on Japan program is a joint activity of the Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission (JUSFC) and the National Endowment for the Humanities. Awards support research on modern Japanese society and political economy, Japan's international relations, and U.S.-Japan relations. The program encourages innovative research that puts these subjects in wider regional and global contexts and is comparative and contemporary in nature. Research should contribute to scholarly knowledge or to the general public's understanding of issues of concern to Japan and the United States. Appropriate disciplines for the research include anthropology, economics, geography, history, international relations, linguistics, political science, psychology, public administration, and sociology. Awards usually result in articles, monographs, books, digital materials, archaeological site reports, translations, editions, or other scholarly resources." <<more>>

STEM
(Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics)

Breakthrough Prize
Breakthrough Prizes in Fundamental Physics, Life Sciences, and Mathematics and New Horizons Prizes
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"Why is there something rather than nothing? What is the Universe made of? How did life begin? How can matter think? How much is knowable? The disciplines that ask the biggest questions and find the deepest explanations are the fundamental sciences. The Breakthrough Prizes honor important, primarily recent, achievements in the categories of Fundamental Physics, Life Sciences and Mathematics. The prizes are sponsored by Sergey Brin, Priscilla Chan and Mark Zuckerberg, Pony Ma, Yuri and Julia Milner, and Anne Wojcicki. Committees of previous laureates choose the winners from candidates nominated in a process that's online and open to the public.... While self-nominations are prohibited, anyone may nominate another person.... For the seventh year, the Breakthrough Prize, recognized as the world's largest science prize, will honor top scientists, handing out up to four prizes in Life Sciences, one in Fundamental Physics and one in Mathematics. Each prize comes with a $3 million award. In addition, up to six New Horizons Prizes, each for $100,000, will be presented to promising early-career researchers in the fields of Physics and Mathematics." <<more>>

Society for the Teaching of Psychology
Conference Speaker Grant Program
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"The Society for The Teaching of Psychology (STP; Division 2 of APA) is pleased to announce a program to provide support to teaching conferences or preconferences to fund speakers related to the teaching of psychology. The grant program is open to any gathering of psychology teachers from 4-year colleges and universities, 2-year colleges, or high schools. (Please note that the program does not fund speakers for regional research conferences through this program; long-standing regional research conferences are supported by STP through another program.)" <<more>>

Fred C. Gloeckner Foundation
Foundation Grants
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"The Gloeckner Foundation awards grants for research and educational projects in floriculture and related fields at universities, colleges and Federal research institutions in the United States. The proposed research and educational projects must be of substantial importance, and the results made available to the interested public." <<more>>

American Psychological Association
Visionary Grants
Deadline: April 1, 2020
"The APF Visionary Grants seek to seed innovation through supporting research, education and intervention projects and programs that use psychology to solve social problems in the following priority areas:
- Applying psychology to at-risk, vulnerable populations (e.g. serious mental illness, returning military, those who are incarcerated or economically disadvantaged)
- Preventing violence
- Understanding the connection between behavior and health (e.g. wellness, diabetes, obesity)
- Understanding and eliminating stigma and prejudice (e.g. race, gender, sexual orientation, religion, age, disability and socioeconomic status)

Preference will be given to pilot projects that, if successful, would be strong candidates for support from major federal and foundation funding agencies, and "demonstration projects" that promise to generalize broadly to similar settings in other geographical areas and/or to other settings." <<more>>

American Astronomical Society
Chrétien International Research Grants
Deadline: April 1. 2020
"In honor of the memory of Henri Chrétien, French Professor of Optics and co-originator of the Ritchey-Chrétien telescope design, the American Astronomical Society has been named to administer grants to further international collaborative projects in observational astronomy. Emphasis is on long-term visits and the development of close working relationships with astronomers in other countries." <<more>>

Microsoft and National Geographic AI for Earth
Deadline: April 6, 2020
"The grants will support the creation and deployment of open source trained models and algorithms that are available to other environmental researchers and innovators and thereby have the potential to provide exponential impact. To qualify, applications should outline a proposal to use AI for conservation in at least one of the following core areas: Biodiversity conservation... Climate change... Agriculture... Water... Below are just a few examples of the types of tools that we are interested in supporting: Biodiversity conservation: acoustic and image classification, geotemporal distribution models Climate change: temperature and precipitation model downscaling, risk optimization Agriculture: health monitoring in crops and livestock, yield modeling Water: groundwater modeling, flood prediction" <<more>>

National Institutes of Health
R13, U13 Conference Grants and Conference Cooperative Agreements
Deadline: April 12, 2020
"The NIH ICs each have different scientific missions, as well as program goals and initiatives that evolve over time. In order to promote the most efficient use of NIH funds towards meeting the mission and program goals of the ICs, each conference grant application is required to contain a permission-to-submit letter from one of the participating ICs (see IC Contact and Special Interests website). Applicants are urged to initiate contact well in advance of the chosen application receipt date and no later than 6 weeks before that date. Applicants should inquire about IC-specific program priorities and policies in regards to conference grants. Please note that agreement to accept an application does not guarantee funding." <<more>>

Whitehall Foundation
Research Grants and Grants-in-Aid
Deadline: April 15, 2020
"The Whitehall Foundation, through its program of grants and grants-in-aid, assists scholarly research in the life sciences. It is the Foundation's policy to assist those dynamic areas of basic biological research that are not heavily supported by Federal Agencies or other foundations with specialized missions. In order to respond to the changing environment, the Whitehall Foundation periodically reassesses the need for financial support by the various fields of biological research. The Foundation emphasizes the support of young scientists at the beginning of their careers and productive senior scientists who wish to move into new fields of interest. Consideration is given, however, to applicants of all ages.... The Foundation is currently interested in basic research in neurobiology, defined as follows: Invertebrate and vertebrate (excluding clinical) neurobiology, specifically investigations of neural mechanisms involved in sensory, motor, and other complex functions of the whole organism as these relate to behavior. The overall goal should be to better understand behavioral output or brain mechanisms of behavior. "Research grants are available to established scientists of all ages working at accredited institutions in the United States. The Grants-in-Aid program is designed for researchers at the assistant professor level who experience difficulty in competing for research funds because they have not yet become firmly established. Grants-in-Aid can also be made to senior scientists." These grants cannot exceed $30,000." <<more>>

Scoliosis Research Society
Research Grants
Deadline: April 15, 2020
"New Investigator Grant: This grant is specifically targeted towards new investigators. A new investigator is defined as someone who is either a fellow or within 10 years of completion of fellowship or equivalent specialist training in their country and has not previously been awarded funding from a major funding organization. However, this grant is available to candidates who have received a Small Exploratory grant.... Small Exploratory Grant This grant is designed specifically for new investigators who have a preliminary concept they would like to develop into a research project.... SRS-Cotrel Foundation Basic Science Grant The SRS-Cotrel Foundation basic science research grants is for projects that will be performing work at the level of a small animal (rodent, fish, etc.) or smaller, including tissue, cellular, and molecular levels. Population genetics studies are also included in this category. Biomechanical studies will not be considered in this category. Standard Investigator Grant.... The Society expects that these grants will lay the foundation for a sustained avenue of investigation and allow the investigator(s) to seek larger grants from sources such as the NIH or OREF. Investigators who have been funded at this level should not plan on, nor expect that the "next step" in a project will be funded by SRS after completion of their initial work. The work produced by a standard research grant is expected to be sufficient to lead to additional funding from another source." <<more>>

 American Psychological Association
 APF Alexander Gralnick Research Investigator Prize
Deadline: April 15, 2020
"The $20,000 grant supports "exceptional individuals working in the area of serious mental illness," including but not limited to schizophrenia, bipolar disorder and paranoia (delusional disorder). The American Psychological Foundation provides financial support for innovative research and programs that enhance the power of psychology to elevate the human condition and advance human potential both now and in generations to come." <<more>>

National Institutes of Health
Team-Based Design in Biomedical Engineering Education (R25)
Deadline: April 27. 2020
"Applications are encouraged from institutions that propose to establish new or to enhance existing team-based design courses or programs in undergraduate biomedical engineering departments or other degree-granting programs with biomedical engineering tracks/minors. This FOA targets the education of undergraduate biomedical engineering/bioengineering students in a team-based environment. While current best practices such as multidisciplinary/ interdisciplinary education, introduction to the regulatory pathway and other issues related to the commercialization of medical devices, and clinical immersion remain encouraged components of a strong BME program, this FOA also challenges institutions to propose other novel, innovative and/or ground-breaking activities that can form the basis of the next generation of biomedical engineering design education." <<more>>
