

Grant Opportunities & News You Can Use

Hello Faculty,

This Friday, November 8, 12:30-5:00pm, Columbia University Medical Center is offering a workshop, “Best Practices for Competitive Grant Applications: NIH Funding for Research & Career Development Activities,” at the Atchley-Loeb Conference Room, 622 W. 168th St., 8th floor, room 107. Register here.

Please be aware the next deadline for Internal Research Grants and for Inclusive Pedagogy Fund Proposals is November 21. January 31 is the deadline for the next round for Internal Research Grants and for the Tow Award for Innovative and Outstanding Pedagogy Proposals. For more information, visit the Internal Grants & Support page.

This edition, we have for our librarians an opportunity in Library Science. Look for it on page 7.

If you would like assistance in finding grants for your upcoming research, please contact Kari Steeves. As always, feel free to send any comments or suggestions directly to us here.

Best,
Kari Steeves

Featured Funding Opportunity

American Council of Learned Societies

Over the past five years, the American Council of Learned Societies has awarded nineteen research grants and fellowships to Barnard faculty in fourteen different departments. Impressive!

From the website:

“ACLS, a private, nonprofit federation of 75 national scholarly organizations, is the preeminent representative of American scholarship in the humanities and related social sciences. Advancing scholarship by awarding fellowships and strengthening relations among learned societies is central to our work. Other activities include support for scholarly conferences, reference works, and scholarly communication innovations.”

“Research. ACLS fellows and grantees are engaged in creating new knowledge that benefits our understanding of the world. ACLS continues to be the leading private institution supporting scholars across a variety of humanistic disciplines. In the 2016-17 competition year, ACLS will award more than $20 million to over 325 scholars worldwide. ACLS’s fellowship and grant competitions provide a range of opportunities for scholars at all career stages (from graduate students to distinguished professors to independent scholars) working with varied disciplines and methodologies in the US and abroad. Major international initiatives include the African Humanities Program, the Center for Educational Exchange with Viet Nam, and The Robert H. N. Ho Family Foundation Program In Buddhist Studies global competitions.” This newsletter has profiled some of these individual opportunities in the past.

“Innovation. ACLS has long supported new methods and subjects of humanities scholarship. New fellowship programs address digital humanities, collaborative research, and scholars at work outside the academy. Recent initiatives on scholarly communication include Humanities E-Book, and sponsored publications such as the American National Biography and the Darwin Correspondence Project.”

“For the purpose of these competitions, the humanities and related social sciences include but are not limited to American studies; anthropology; archaeology; art history and architectural history; classics; economics; ethnic studies; film; gender studies; geography; history; languages and literatures; legal studies; linguistics; musicology; philosophy; political science; psychology; religious studies; rhetoric, communication, and media studies; science and technology studies; sociology; and theater, dance, and performance studies.”

“However, proposals in the social science fields listed above are eligible only if they employ predominantly humanistic approaches and qualitative/interpretive methodologies (e.g., economic history, law and literature, political philosophy, history of psychology). Proposals in interdisciplinary and cross-disciplinary humanities and related social sciences are welcome, and most programs do not restrict the focus of research to any geographic region or to any cultural or linguistic group of study.”

Sage Advice for Competitive Proposals

GrantSpace offers its “Top 5 Tips for Successful Grant Proposals” in a blog post from 2014. The cheat sheet is this:

1. Do your homework! Research, research, research.
2. Present a logical solution to a problem.
3. Convince the funder you know what you’re doing.
4. Tell the same story in the budget and the proposal narrative.
5. Remember that funders are people.

The Newberry Research Fellowships

Deadline: November 15 for long-term fellowships, December 15 for short-term and publication subvention

“Long-Term Fellowships

Fellowships are available for 4 to 9 months...without regard to an applicant’s place of residence and are intended to support significant works of scholarship that draw on the strengths of the Newberry’s collection. Long-term fellowships residencies must take place primarily during the academic year (September through May).

Short-Term Fellowships

Fellowships are available for 1 to 2 months...(and) are intended for assist researchers who need to examine specific items in the Newberry’s collection in order to advance a significant scholarly project. These fellowships are mainly restricted to individuals who live outside of the Chicago metropolitan area; for exceptions to these restrictions, please read the individual fellowship descriptions.

Publication Subvention

The Weiss-Brown Publication Subvention Award offers support to offset the publication costs of scholarly books on European civilization before 1700.” <<more>> including numerous unique manuscript and archival collections as well as a comprehensive range of publications, photographs, films, audio recordings, and visual art. <<more>>

The Adolph and Esther Gottlieb Foundation Individual Support Grant

Deadline: December 15, 2017

“The Foundation wishes to encourage artists who have dedicated their lives to developing their art, regardless of their level of commercial success.

Please note that these grants are available only to mature individual visual artists. The Foundation defines maturity in this case as having worked for 20 years or more in a mature phase of art.

Last year, the Foundation awarded grants of $25,000 each to 12 artists.

The Gottlieb Foundation does not fund organizations, projects, educational institutions, students, graphic artists, or those working in crafts. The disciplines of photography, film, video, or related forms are not eligible unless the work directly involves, or can be interpreted as, painting or sculpture.

This program was conceived in order to recognize and support the serious, fully-committed artist, and we hope these individuals will consider applying.” <<more>>

Humanities New York Reading and Discussion Program

Deadline: December 18, 2017

“In each of Humanities NY’s Reading & Discussion Programs, participants read a series of thematically linked texts over the course of four, five, or six sessions. At each session, participants come together with others in their community to discuss a text in a conversation facilitated by a trained local scholar.

The texts in each series vary: novels, poems, speeches, memoirs, and essays; works of history, philosophy, religion, and criticism. Each series is organized around a significant theme or important historical commemoration. A list of texts is provided from which the host site and the scholar-facilitator choose. Humanities New York provides up to 15 copies of books for the host site to borrow.”

“Any tax-exempt organization in New York State can host this program.”

Fourteen themes are available:

- The Poetry and Thought of Audre Lorde
- Votes for Women!
- American Politics and Community Today
- Pulitzer "Campfire" Readings: Reaching for the American Dream
- James Baldwin's America
- In Cold Blood: True Crime, An American Genre
- The Serious Side of Food
- Our World Remade: World War I
- Serving: Standing Down
- Growing & Aging
- Lincoln on the Civil War
- Making Sense of the Civil War
- Muslim Journeys
- Serving

To host a session (or several), “You choose a theme, decide how many sessions to hold, and find a local scholar to facilitate the discussions. After you're awarded the program, you then select readings from our themed book lists that work best for your community. The book lists can be found on HNY's website.”

“Humanities NY awards grants of up to $1,000 to support organizations that continue to offer Reading & Discussion programs of their own design.

Reading & Discussion Grants are available to organizations that have previously hosted one of Humanities NY's Reading & Discussion Programs.”

AccessLex Institution/Association for Institutional Research, Research Grants

Deadline: November 30, 2017

“This research and dissertation fellows program is a partnership between the AccessLex Institute and the Association for Institutional Research (AIR).

The program is a grant competition promoting scholarship on issues related to access, affordability and value of legal education specifically, and graduate and professional education more broadly. Preference is given to proposals that utilize regional, national, or multi-institutional datasets, although research that focuses on a single institution is acceptable. Preference is also given to proposals that specifically address legal education; however, proposals that study access, affordability and value of graduate and professional education more generally are also encouraged. Researchers may analyze pre-existing data or include the construction of a new dataset in their proposal. Membership to AccessLex Institute or AIR is not required for grant eligibility.” Faculty, practitioners, and scholars are eligible for grants up to $50,000. <<more>>

American Sociological Association Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline

Deadline: December 15, 2017

“The American Sociological Association (ASA) invites submissions for the Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline (FAD) awards. Supported by the ASA and the National Science Foundation (NSF), the goal of this program is to nurture the development of scientific knowledge by funding small, groundbreaking research initiatives and other important scientific research activities such as conferences. FAD awards provide scholars with “seed money” for innovative research that has the potential for challenging the discipline, stimulating new lines of research, and creating new networks of scientific collaboration. The award is intended to provide opportunities for substantive and methodological breakthroughs, broaden the dissemination of scientific knowledge, and provide leverage for acquisition of additional research funds.” <<more>>

Gladys Kriebel Delmas Foundation Venetian Research Program

Deadline: December 15, 2017

“The Foundation awards travel grants to individual scholars to support historical research on Venice and the former Venetian empire, and for the study of contemporary Venetian society and culture. Disciplines of the humanities and social sciences are eligible areas of study, including (but not limited to) archaeology, architecture, art, bibliography, economics, history, history of science, law, literature, music, political science, religion, and theater. Funds may be used for travel to and residence in Venice and the and the former Venetian empire; transportation within the Veneto; and specific research expenses.”

“Applications will be entertained for grants up to a maximum of $20,000 for a full academic year.

Grants for the maximum amount are rarely awarded, and successful applicants are frequently awarded less than the amount requested. Award amounts are based on length of stay, plus travel and research costs.” <<more>>

National Speleological Society Research Grants

Deadline: December 1, 2017

“Research Grants are given to qualified individuals or teams who are members of the NSS by the time the proposal is submitted for research-support in cave-related branches of study. This includes, but is not limited to, natural sciences (e.g., cave biology, geology, paleontology, and hydrology), social sciences (e.g., archaeology), and the humanities (e.g., speleological history). We also welcome interdisciplinary proposals. Grants applications will be evaluated for their potential to generate new information and insights that are suitable for submission to peer-reviewed publications. By accepting a grant, the recipient(s) also accepts his/her responsibility for acknowledging NSS financial support in all publications and public presentations of the research funded.” <<more>>

Smithsonian Mpala Postdoctoral Fellowship

Deadline: December 1, 2017

“In 1991, The Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute (STRI) was instrumental in establishing the Mpala Research Centre, a site for multidisciplinary research and training in Africa, in collaboration with Princeton University, the Kenya Wildlife service, the National Museums of Kenya, and the Mpala Wildlife Foundation. Located on the Laikipia Plateau in north central Kenya, the Centre provides an ideal setting for research in a variety of disciplines, offering 49,107 acres of savannah and dry woodland, an extensive wildlife community typical of East Africa, and ample housing and laboratory space for 35 researchers and students.”

“The Mpala Research Centre is perfect for studies ranging from ecology and botany to animal behavior and human-wildlife interactions. Research at Mpala can be conducted by any applicant with an explicitly proposed, approved, and funded project.”

“Fellowships are offered by the Smithsonian Institution to provide opportunities for graduate students, predoctoral student, and postdoctoral and senior investigators to conduct research in association with members of the Smithsonian professional research staff and to utilize the resources of the Institution.” <<more>>

Gruber Foundation International Prizes in Cosmology, Genetics, or Neuroscience

Deadline: December 15, 2017

“The Gruber Foundation invites nominations on behalf of individuals whose achievements in Cosmology, Genetics, or Neuroscience would make them suitable candidates for recognition through the 2018 Gruber International Prize Program. Each prize, which is accompanied by a $500,000 unrestricted monetary award, is designed both to recognize groundbreaking work in each field and to

American Association for Clinical Chemistry Awards

Deadline: December 31, 2017

“AACC recognizes and celebrates outstanding contributions through it’s annual awards program, culminating with formal recognition at the AACC Annual Meeting. Most awards go to those in the laboratory field, but some, such as the lectureship award, are often given to people from other disciplines.” The Awards Committee recognizes excellence in the field through the following awards:

- Wallace H. Coulter Lectureship Award
- Outstanding Lifetime Achievement Award in Clinical Chemistry and Laboratory Medicine
- Outstanding Contributions Through Service to the Profession of Clinical Chemistry
- Outstanding Contributions in Education
- AACC-NACB Award for Outstanding Contributions to Clinical Chemistry in a Selected Area of Research
- The AACC Edwin F. Ullman Award for Technology Innovation (awarded in odd years only)
- The Morton K. Schwartz Award for Significant Contributions in Cancer Research Diagnostics (awarded in even years only)
- Outstanding Scientific Achievements by a Young Investigator
- AACC Past President Award
- Outstanding Speaker Awards
- Clinical Chemist's Recognition Award
