

Grant Opportunities & News You Can Use

Hello faculty,

We trust your semester is off and running.

This edition of the Grant Opportunities newsletter features “Humanities Centers” around the world that host fellowships. We’re loosely defining Humanities Centers around the world as not-in-New York not-libraries that offer a scholarly context in which to pursue humanistic studies or projects. Really, it’s an exercise in mental globe-trotting.

Sage Advice offers “10 Tips for Grant Seekers” from a program officer at a private foundation. Foundations differ from government agencies in that grants are usually reviewed not by a panel of peers but by program officers and board members. Different tactics for a successful grant rise to the surface. The News section, including the NSF’s new policies on sexual harassment, follows, and after that appear our profiles of opportunities due in December—not, apparently, a popular month for RPFs, so we included the whole month.

Beginning on page eleven, we list all deadlines through March, grouped by discipline.

Upcoming deadlines for INTERNAL grants are October 9th and November 20th. See the Barnard website, here, for more information.

For deadlines throughout the year, see the Grants Calendar, perpetually in progress, on the Barnard website at External Grant Opportunities. You can download a copy of your very own to sort, search, and filter at will.

If you would like assistance in finding grants for an upcoming project or would like to begin an application process, please contact Kari Steeves. As always, feel free to send any comments, requests, or suggestions to us here.

Fellowships at Humanities Centers

Interested in spending some serious work time at a “Humanities Center?” Rather than look deeply at a single funder, this edition offers a laundry list of on-site fellowships at Humanities Centers around the world. Many of these opportunities seek researchers of all disciplines. You can ordinarily find these within the profile pages about three months before they come due, and we add new ones as we find them. In the meantime, where do you want to go?

Sage Advice for Competitive Proposals

Or in this case, maybe even words to live by.

Daniel Harris, Knight Foundation program director in San Jose, contributed “10 Tips for Grant-Seekers” to the Knight Foundation blog in response to the question “why we choose certain grants and grantees over others.” Several of his tips are so good we wanted to share them. He describes them as “fundamental elements of communication, candor, and collaboration that I tend to find across successful grantees.”

As Barnard staff whose job it is to follow your work, I particularly liked “chase your vision, not the money.” Mr. Harris cautions that it “may have long-term implications” if you “stretch (your) mission and mandate to fit (a funder’s) work.” Indeed! I can attest that you all have fascinating passions that deserve to be funded for what they are. We in Institutional Funding and Sponsored Research marvel daily on the significance and, you know, coolness of Barnard faculty’s projects and programs.

One key to obtaining that deserved funding is knowing which organizations share your passions. Funders usually have made up their minds—long before you apply to them—about their motivations and aims. Funders view grantees as partners in accomplishing their aims. In fact, Mr. Harris uses the word partners twice in his 10 Tips. The closer your aims align with theirs, the more likely they are to want to partner with you. Our office can help you come up with a list of viable prospects.

So perhaps it’s no surprise Mr. Harris advises, “don’t just talk; listen.” Some potential grantees spend so much time passionately describing their project that they forget to allow time for the funder to ask questions, offer insights and share information about the priorities of the foundation.” For good measure he links to the Knight Foundation’s Program Areas, should there be any confusion or curiosity as to what, exactly, that means. Related to that, he says, “do your homework,” both so that you use your valuable time to apply for grants that fit your project and so that you avoid asking questions answered on the foundation website.

Three of Mr. Harris’s tips address the content of your proposal:

“Know what you need.... (B)e prepared to talk through the specifics.”

“Learn to speak in numbers.... While not everything in the world is measurable, show that you have an understanding of how data can best be used in your work.”

“Under promise and over deliver.... (S)et realistic outcomes that you can meet within your proposed time frame and budget.”

Somewhat counterintuitively, Mr. Harris requests that grantees “share bad news early.” He warns that “the world of philanthropy is small.” It’s better to “be candid about challenges and possible road-blocks early...(and) share this news rather than have a funder hear it from someone else first.”

Lastly, “be on time.” As noted at the start of the article, words to live by. If you would like a little elaboration as to the value of being on time and for a couple more tips, please see Mr. Harris’s article.

NSF announces new measures to protect research community from harassment

New policy requires awardee institutions to report sexual harassment findings

September 19, 2018

“The National Science Foundation (NSF) has taken the next steps in its agency-wide effort to ensure the research and learning environments it supports are free from harassment, publishing a term and condition that requires awardee organizations to report findings and determinations of sexual harassment, as well as establishing a secure online portal for submitting harassment notifications. On Sept. 21, 2018, NSF will publish a term and condition for awards, to become effective 30 days after publication, that will require awardee organizations to notify the agency of:

Any findings or determinations that an NSF-funded principal investigator or co-principal investigator committed harassment, including sexual harassment or sexual assault.

The placement of the principal investigator or co-principal investigator on administrative leave, or of the imposition of any administrative action relating to a harassment or sexual assault finding or investigation.” <<more>>

Grant Opportunities

GENERAL INTEREST AND CROSS DISCIPLINARY

Columbia Institute for Ideas and Imagination (II&I) Faculty Fellowships

Deadline: October 26, 2018

“The Columbia Institute for Ideas and Imagination, based at Reid Hall in Paris, offers approximately seven full fellowships annually to Columbia faculty. The Institute encourages applications in all disciplines and on any topic from candidates interested in participating in a creative community of scholars, artists, and thinkers. The fellows will each receive $37,500 per term, or $75,000 for a full academic year (September through May), an office at the Institute in Paris, and access to Columbia’s libraries and various research facilities in Paris and in Europe. We welcome projects from those working in any area of the humanities, the humanistic social sciences, and conceptual dimensions of the natural and applied sciences, as well as from visual artists, filmmakers, writers, and other creative thinkers. In order to be eligible to apply, Columbia faculty should indicate their school and departmental affiliation. We welcome group projects although each participant in the group must apply individually and will be considered on his or her own merits.” <<more>>

Grant Opportunities

The American-Scandinavian Foundation Fellowships

Deadline: November 1, 2018

"The American-Scandinavian Foundation (ASF) is a publicly supported, nonprofit, organization that promotes international understanding through educational and cultural exchange between the U.S. and the Nordic countries....

Fellowships (up to $23,000) and grants (up to $5,000) to individuals to pursue research, study or creative arts projects in one or more Scandinavian country (Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway, Sweden) for up to one year. Awards are made in all fields." <<more>>

Carnegie Corporation Andrew Carnegie Fellows

Deadline: November 8, 2018

"The purpose of the Andrew Carnegie Fellows Program is to support high-caliber scholarship in the social sciences and humanities, making it possible for the recipients to devote time to research and writing that addresses pressing issues and cultural transitions affecting us at home and abroad.... Andrew Carnegie fellowships are open only to citizens or permanent residents of the United States whose names have been forwarded by a nominator designated by Carnegie Corporation of New York. Nominators include university presidents, leaders of think tanks, and editors of various newspapers, magazines, and university presses. Individuals may not apply for the fellows program."

"In 2019, there are four broad topic areas that include a wide range of suggested subtopics

- Strengthening U.S. democracy and exploring new narratives
- Technological and cultural creativity—potential and perils
- Global connections and global ruptures
- Environments, natural and human" <<more>>

ARTS AND HUMANITIES

John F. Kennedy Presidential Library and Museum Ernest Hemingway Research Grants

Deadline: November 1, 2018

"The John F. Kennedy Library Foundation provides funds to scholars and students interested in researching the Ernest Hemingway Collection. The grants (up to $5,000) are intended to help defray travel, living, and other research expenses. Grant applications are evaluated on the basis of expected utilization of the Collection, the proposed project's contributions to Hemingway and/or related studies, and the applicant's qualifications." <<more>>

New York University Institute for Study of the Ancient World Visiting Scholar Research Program

Deadline: November 20, 2018

"ISAW's scope embraces research and graduate education in the history, archaeology, and culture of the entire Old World from late prehistoric times to the eighth century AD, including Asia and Africa. Projects of a theoretical or comparative nature relevant to this domain are also welcome. Academic visitors at ISAW should be individuals of scholarly distinction or promise in any relevant field of ancient studies who will benefit from the stimulation of working in an environment with colleagues in other disciplines. Applicants with a history of interdisciplinary exchange are particularly welcome. They will be expected to be in residence at the Institute during the period for which they are appointed and to take part in the intellectual life of the community." <<more>>

Princeton History Department Fellowship

Deadline: December 1, 2018

"As part of our mission to support innovation in historical research, The Davis Center welcomes applications for Fellowships from scholars whose research engages broadly and imaginatively with the theme that the Center sets each year. Our aim is to bring to five to six Fellows per semester to the Center where they pursue their own scholarly faculty member and student, as well as a budget indicating how the money will be spent (the award covers such expenses as books, supplies, and travel for the student but not honoraria). The application should also indicate whether the project is receiving support from the applicant's home institution. Finally the application should describe what the research pair envisages the nature of the final product to be, and what contribution it is intended to make to the field. The faculty member participating in this project must be a current CAMWS member at the time of application. The undergraduate does not. If awarded the grant, the undergraduate will receive a complimentary membership in CAMWS for the year of the grant." <<more>>

American Sociological Association Fund for the Advancement of the Discipline

Deadline: December 15, 2018

"The goal of this award is to nurture the development of scientific knowledge by funding small, groundbreaking research initiatives that will advance the discipline. FAD awards provide scholars with "seed money" for innovative research that provides opportunities for substantive and methodological breakthroughs, broadens the dissemination of scientific knowledge, and provides leverage for acquisition of additional research funds." <<more>>

Rutgers University Beyster Postdoctoral Fellowship

Deadline: December 31, 2018

"The Beyster fellowships are awarded to outstanding Ph.D. candidates or postdoctoral scholars in the areas of economics, history, management, business and labor relations, law, philosophy, psychology, political science, public policy, and sociology studying employee ownership and related ideas such as profit sharing and broad-based stock options in the corporation and society in the United States. The fellowships permit the students to associate with several scholars engaged in this area of research at Rutgers and receive mentoring and support.... [The Postdoctoral Fellowship] will support pre-tenure scholars and recent Ph.D. graduates. The stipend is $25,000 for one year and can be used for research, travel, and living expenses. The fellow can be a resident at Rutgers University or at their home institution. The period and length of residency varies.... [The Visiting Professor] supports a scholar who holds an academic appointment at another university and visits Rutgers in order to collaborate with researchers at the university." <<more>>

Rutgers University The Louis O. Kelso Fellowships

Deadline: December 31, 2018

"The Louis O. Kelso Fellowships are awarded to outstanding scholars studying the topic of broadened ownership of capital in a democratic society in the United States. Ph.D. candidates, postdoctoral scholars, or visiting professors in the areas of business/economics/labor studies/management, history, law, philosophy, political science, psychology, public policy, or sociology may apply.... The general theme of the fellowship includes the study of the idea and practice and public policy of broadening the ownership of capital assets in society such as the Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP), which broadens the ownership of corporations, as well as approaches whereby consumers may have capital ownership of enterprises and individual citizens may have access to opportunities for capital acquisition. The relevance of these and other related ideas to the concept of economic democracy and democratic capitalism can also be pursued. The fellows may be supported at their home institution or may be in residence at Rutgers University with the period and length of residency varying between July 1 and June 30 of the academic year. The fellows will receive stipends of $12,500 that can be used for research, travel, or living expenses." <<more>>

Smith Richardson Foundation Grants

Deadline: rolling

"The International Security and the Foreign Policy

Grants and Fellowship Opportunities (cont'd)

Program and Domestic Public Policy Program make grants for research and writing on public policy topics that have been identified as priority areas for the Foundation." "The objective of the International Security and Foreign Policy Program is to assist the U.S. policy community in developing effective national security strategies and foreign policies. The Foundation is committed to supporting projects that help the policy community face the fundamental challenge of ensuring the security of the United States, protecting and promoting American interests and values abroad, and enhancing international order. The Domestic Public Policy Program supports projects that will help the public and policy makers understand and address critical challenges facing the United States. To that end, the Foundation supports research on and evaluation of existing public policies and programs, as well as projects that inject new ideas into public debates." <<more>>

LANGUAGE AND AREA STUDIES

American Institute for Sri Lankan Studies Fellowship Program

Deadline: December 1, 2018

"Projects in all fields in the social sciences and humanities are eligible. Proposals in other areas that contribute to the understanding of Sri Lankan history, culture, or society are also invited. Applicants need not have prior research experience in Sri Lanka. The Fellowship includes a monthly stipend for a period of two to six months, reimbursement for round-trip airfare, and a limited budget for research expenses. Applicants should apply for whatever length of tenure between two and six months best suits their research needs and personal schedules."

Freie Universtat Berlin Fellowship

Deadline: December 1, 2018

"The Berlin Program for Advanced German and European Studies offers up to one year of research support at the Freie Universität Berlin and is open to scholars in all social science and humanities disciplines, including historians working on the period since the mid-18th century." <<more>>

The Gladys Krieble Delmas Foundation Venetian Research Program for Individual Scholars

Deadline: December 15, 2018

"The Foundation awards travel grants to individual scholars to support historical research on Venice and the former Venetian empire, and for the study of contemporary Venetian society and culture. Disciplines of the humanities and social sciences are eligible areas of study, including (but not limited to) archaeology, architecture, art, bibliography, economics, history, history of science, law, literature, music, political science, religion, and theater." <<more>>

STEM

(SCIENCE, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING, AND MATHEMATICS)

American Association for the Advancement of Science

Deadline: November 1, 2018

"AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships (STPF) provide opportunities to outstanding scientists and engineers to learn first-hand about policymaking while contributing their knowledge and analytical skills to the federal policymaking process. Fellows serve yearlong assignments in the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the federal government in Washington. Each year, the program adds to a growing corps over 3,000 strong of policy-savvy leaders working across academia, government, nonprofits and industry to serve the nation and the world. " <<more>>

Glenn Foundation for Medical Research and American Federation for Aging Research Grants for Junior Faculty

Deadline: December 1, 2018

"The major goal of this program is to assist in the development of the careers of junior investigators committed to pursuing careers in the field of aging research. GMRF and AFAR support research projects concerned with understanding the basic mechanisms of aging. Projects investigating age-

McKnight Foundation Technological Innovations in Neuroscience

Deadline: December 4, 2018

"These awards support scientists working on new and unusual approaches to understanding brain function. The program seeks to advance and enlarge the range of technologies available to the neurosciences. It does not support research based primarily on existing techniques. The Endowment Fund is especially interested in how technology may be used or adapted to monitor, manipulate, analyze, or model brain function at any level, from the molecular to the entire organism. Collaborative and cross-disciplinary applications are invited."

National Institutes of Health Individual Fellowship for Senior Fellows

Deadline: December 8, 2018

"The Ruth L. Kirschstein National Research Service Awards for Senior Fellows (F33) provides up to two years of support for experienced scientists who wish to make major changes in the direction of their research careers or who wish to broaden their scientific background by acquiring new research capabilities. These awards are targeted to individuals with at least seven years of research experience beyond the doctorate, and who have progressed to the stage of independent investigator. In most cases, this award is used to support sabbatical experiences. "

The Office of Naval Research Smart and Connected Health Connecting Data, People and Systems

Deadline: December 11, 2018

"This solicitation supports fundamental research to realize the promise of disruptive transformations in public health, medicine and healthcare. These transformations will require well-coordinated, multi-disciplinary approaches that complement the long-standing disease and application-focused research efforts with fundamental, innovative, and high-risk research that draws from multiple domains of computer and information science, engineering, and the social, behavioral and economic sciences.

Grants and Fellowship Opportunities (cont'd)

Proposals can address computational, algorithmic, real-time and systemic level issues, as well as models of uptake, diffusion, and use of the resulting solutions amongst different demographic and social groups. Research can also explore advances in science in remote or unconventional settings, the role of appropriate incentives, the risk of potential disparities, and the associated legal and ethical considerations. Accordingly, this interagency solicitation represents the collaboration of NSF and the NIH. The work to be funded by this solicitation must make fundamental contributions to two or more disciplines, such as computer or information sciences, engineering, social, behavioral, cognitive and/or economic sciences and address a key health problem."

The Gruber Foundation Genetics Prize

Deadline: December 15, 2018

"The Genetics Prize is presented to a leading scientist, or up to three, in recognition of groundbreaking contributions to any realm of genetics research. The Gruber Foundation established and awarded its first Genetics Prize in 2001. This year of monumental accomplishment in genetics research, with the successful sequencing of the human genome, was a particularly auspicious time to launch the world's first major international prize devoted specifically to achievements in the realm of genetics research."

National Science Foundation Statistics

Deadline: December 17, 2018

"The Statistics Program supports research in statistical theory and methods, including research in statistical methods for applications to any domain of science and engineering. The theory forms the base for statistical science. The methods are used for stochastic modeling, and the collection, analysis and interpretation of data. The methods characterize uncertainty in the data and facilitate advancement in science and engineering. The Program encourages proposals ranging from single-investigator projects to interdisciplinary team projects."
